KING EDWARD ISSUES AN ADDRESS ON REACHING COWES.

He Urges the Importance of Industry, Education and Toleration, and Hopes for Erin's Prosperity.

COMMENT OF BRITISH PRESS

EVEN THE IRISH PAPERS ARE PLEASED WITH THE TRIP.

They Ask for a Yearly Visit-Gift to Dublin Hospitals-King Charles's Message to Roosevelt.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 2.- The royal yacht Victoria and Albert reached here this evening, and King Edward immediately ordered the issue of the following address:

"To My Irish People-I desire, on leaving Ireland, to express to my Irish people how deeply I have been touched by the kindness and good will they have shown to the Queen and myself. Our experience on previous visits had, indeed, prepared us for a traditional welcome of a warm-hearted race, but our expectations have been exceeded. Wherever we have gone, in town or country, tokens of loyalty and affection proffered by every section of the community have made an enduring impression on our hearts. For a country so attractive and a people so gifted we cherish the warmest regard, and it is, therefore, with supreme satisfaction that I have so often, during our stay, heard the hope expressed that a brighter day is dawning upon Ireland. I shall eagerly await the fulfillment of this hope. Its realization will, under divine providence, depend largely upon the steady development of self-reliance and co-operation, upon better and more dustrial and commercial enterprise, and on that increase of mutual toleration and reof their local affairs is well fitted to teach. It is my earnest prayer that these and other means of national well-being may multiply blessings of peace, contentment and prosperity may be abundantly vouchsafed to EDWARD, R. and I.

"Aug. 1." Copies of the address will be posted throughout Ireland to-morrow. Their Majesties received a great reception on their arrival here. They remained aboard the royal yacht, where they were visited this evening by the Prince of Wales. Cowes is already very gay with people who have come for the week of yachting.

This promise of another visit to Ireland has given the greatest satisfaction throughout the country, and the morning papers here all pay tributes to the inestimable service which the King has rendered the realm by his tactful conduct.

The visit is commented on as a great success which will open up a new era of prosperity for Ireland, and the address issued by the King at Cowes yesterday is welcomed as a felicitous ending of a memorable journey. Even the Irish papers are enthusiastic, declaring if only the King will pay a yearly visit, or send the Prince of Wales if he cannot come himself, Ireland's troubles will soon begin to disappear. Before leaving Queenstown the King summoned Horace Plunkett, vice president of the department of agriculture and technical instruction for Ireland, aboard the royal yacht and complimented him on his work in Ireland's behalf, conferred the honor of knighthood and presented him with a knight commandership of the Victorian Order, saying: "I wish you to take it as a personal gift from myself." The King further commanded the lord lieutenant of Ireland to announce that his Majesty had received from Lord Iveagh (Edward Cevil Guiness) $250,000 to be de-

Prisoners seldom object to "taking exercise," as the work is called by the officer in charge There have been but three cases of rebellion against taking exercise, and the punishment was such that others seemed glad to work rather than be humiliated. It was not severe in any case, and usually was nothing more than being compelled to wear a ball and chain and be put on short rations. The Madison county prisoners are in charge of Andy McDivett, who has a record of getting more work out of the men than any person who has ever been put in charge of the gang. McDivett is a typical Irishman, and takes delight in wielding the sledge himself. The stone is sold to the city, to contractors, and is also used by the county in the repair of roads. There are a number of instances here where the men, after, being released from the jail, sought out employment, and really were reformed by forming the habit of working eight hours

The tramps shun Anderson, and seldom does one venture up town. In case he does, or is reported from the outskirts, an officer is sent out, and the "weary Willie" is soon given a berth at the stone pile. The estabishment of the stone pile here is thought to have done more to rid the city of tramps

It is the custom for the night workmen to stop work for an hour any time between midnight and morning to eat lunch and rest outside the mill on the grain sacks which are piled there. Barder and several others ate their lunches together this mborning, after which all except Barder returned to the interior of the mill. A short time afterwards one of the men went to call him. The latter did not answer and an investigation followed. His unconscious form was soon discovered. There was a great hole in his head and life was nearly extinct. He died without regaining consciousness. It is supposed that Barder, being tired and sleepy, sat down on the tracks and fell asleep. A second section of Wabash train No. 3, one of the fastest on the road, passed about that time and probably struck the man while he was sleeping He leaves a young widow.

HEADLEY GLASS FACTORY IS TO BE REMOVED FROM FAIRMOUNT.

Terre Haute Loses the Industry-Grand Jury to Investigate Bank-Wrecking Cases at Auburn.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 2.-The Commercial Club has learned definitely that the Headley glass manufacturing people will notwithstanding that the company some time ago entered into a contract to move to Terre Haute. Just after the contract was signed the window glass trust gave out that it would use machine blowers, by duced to an extent that made competition by such independent plants as the Headleys' virtually impossible. The Headleys notified the Commercial Club that the outlook was such that they did not feel like increasing their investment in the industry. as they would have to do should they come to Terre Haute. The offer by Danville is understood not to have been so advantageous to the Headleys as the one made by Terre Haute. Another report is that the Danville factory will not be a window

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WATERLOO, Ind., Aug. 1.-Judge James H. Rose, of the Circuit Court, has decided to call the grand jury back and instruct it to investigate the bank matters and indict the wreckers of the institutions if they can find them guilty. He further says that he will employ at the expense of the county some of the best counsel obtainable to prosecute those indicted, and he will do all in his power to see that the people are protected. He also says that the money raised by subscription will not be needed, as it will be a State case and the law provides for the prosecution of

The County Commissioners will be asked to defray the expense of the sheriff in going after the men responsible for the wrecking of the two banks at this place

NEW OIL FIELD

Proved to Exist by the Development of a Well Near Ridgeville.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RIDGEVILLE, Ind., Aug. 2.-The oil well recently drilled on the J. M. Adington lease, two miles south of town, was tested yesteray and showed ten to twelve barrels without pumping, thus demonstrating the existence of a new oil field.

The well is located in a field of about 1,200 acres leased by the Dividend Oil Company, of Marion, Ind., in which a number of Ridgeville business men are stockholders. The operators immediately located their second well and will proceed to develop their holdings, rental having been paid on over 1,000 acres Aug. 1.

The Tyfold Collar

The picture shows how the collar is cut out on each side to allow for adjusting a neck tie without springing the coliar open. The collar comes close together in front, it keeps the tie in place and you don't see the cut-out part. Besides the tie is retained just over the button, which is also kept out of sight.
